

Excercise: Read and match

Must

a. Expressing obligation	She must have missed the bus
b. Making deductions about the present	You really must read this book
c. Making deductions about the past	They must be very happy after passing their final exams
d. Giving advice (should is often use instead)	They must finish the project by the end of this week

Mustn't

a. Expressing prohibition	You mustn't be so rude to people
b. Expressing strong recommendation(should is often used instead)	We mustn't fish in this river

Have to

a. It expresses present/past obligation but it is less strong than "must"	Frank has to be as clever as his brother
b. It also expresses past obligation	They had to do the exam again because they had cheated
c. It is also used to express certainty, when you are sure about something	She has to go to the dentist

Don't have to

a. It is used to express absence of obligation. Although it is the negative of "have to", it is never used to express prohibition like "mustn't"	She doesn't have to finish the book till next week
b. to express absence of obligation in the past we use "didn't have to"	I didn't have to buy a new dress for the party
	I don't have to go to school today
